Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 30 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers initially across north. Otherwise dry, increasingly bright. Seasonally mild.

Today:
Showers across north during the morning, heavy over the Highlands and Islands through to mid-morning. Otherwise dry with bright and sunny spells increasing, becoming widespread in the Northeast for the afternoon. Seasonally mild with double figure maximums. Winds occasionally freshening.

Tonight:
Cloud soon thickening from the south with a band of occasionally heavy rain extending northwards to reach the Central Belt around midnight, and all but far north come dawn.

Friday:
Overcast and wet for most initially. Turning drier late morning, with brighter spells appearing in north. Continuing rather cloudy from Central Belt southwards, with some patchy light rain or drizzle.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Saturday mild, but not feeling so in brisk winds that bring showers or longer periods of rain. Sunshine, showers for Sunday. Rain then showers Monday, these perhaps wintry in north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.